City approves record $13,900 budget for '65

Jeffersontown city councilman approved an annual budget of $131,900, for 1965, an increase in three years from approximately $45,000, said Councilman Bill Morrissey.

At the Monday night meeting, councilmen increased the Police Department by one full time man; hired an attorney to fight the City Hall court opposition; set up a committee to investigate a master plan and appointed a police court clerk. To recap, the events are as follows:

With a cash balance of $26,000 the city has adopted a record budget to operate the city for the coming year. The estimated income was set at $105,000 - $80,000 from property taxes and $15,000 from business licenses.

Estimated expenditures of $39,000 will cover the Sanitation Department and Public Works Department. The Sanitation Department (garbage collection) will expend $18,900 while the Public Works (drainage, streets, etc.) will figure for $17,000.

A total of $25,000 is budgeted for the Police Department. This amount, together with the $35,000 total for the Sanitation and Public Works Departments and miscellaneous items bring the total to $122,500.

This with a contingency fund of $9,400 brings the total to $131,900.

Bond issues for roads the proposed City Hall and other properties do not figure in the budget as they are included in a special fund account, not in the city's working budget. They will be included in the financial statement, however.

*Councilman Bob Pfalzer asked for consideration of a city master plan. The plan would allow for future needs of the business area, traffic problems and growing pains. Pfalzer said, "The plan would allow for four lanes of traffic, two for parking uniform building lines; long range look at zoning regulations; improve streets and elevate sidewalks throughout; set up a building code to control construction values; install gas street lights; bury utility lines; keep the business district from turning into an uncontrolled area, such as several unincorporated areas of the county."

*Councilman appointed John Corbett as Police Court Clerk, Corbett, a former city patrolman, is a resident of Old Mill Lane and will assist Judge Stanley Searcy in bookkeeping and the courts agenda. *Pfizer's has been appointed to serve as attorney for the city in the upcoming court action to block the City Hall construction. Councilman Pfalzer and Morrissey received their court summons, served by the court clerk in the names of plaintiffs Dallas and Margaret Brothers.

*Attorney for the city, Richard T. Breatth, was requested to another one-year term, saying the only clause not appearing in last year's appointment that was added. It is the city's right to discharge him without prior notice.

Board releases figures on merger

A 154-page mimeographed booklet dealing with statistics of the Louisville and Jefferson County Boards of Education has been delivered to interested persons by the two units.

Figures include the financial experiences of the two school systems for the past 10 years and the projection of current expenses and capital outlays through the 1969-70 term.

The report, authorized by the two boards, also contains information pertinent to the study of a proposed merger of the two school systems.

It was prepared under direction of Charles E. Sanders, director of research of the Louisville Board of Education, and Conrad Ott, associate superintendent of the County Board. The report updates a similar study made in 1957 and follows the pattern of earlier studies made in 1952 and 1955.

One of the most significant portions of the report pertains to "Factors to be Considered in the Event of Merger."

These include additional annual costs to each system in case of a merger, the percentage of cost to be maintained. Last year, the county received $276,000 from this source.

The biggest item, of course, is salaries. According to the report, the county salary system an additional $816,855 and the city system $970,342, a total of $1,787,197.

Generally, the county scale for teachers is higher, but the county has more non-certified employees such as operations and clerical personnel. Jefferson County, however, pays its maintenance personnel at a higher scale. The county anticipates its building needs for the five-year period 1965-69 at $1,554,455 and an enrollment of 91,986 by 1970. The enrollment will compare with the current figure of 83,448. The Louisville system does not have a material increase in its current figure of 49,268 between this year and 1970. The city's current and anticipated capital outlays are being met by the special voted building tax now in effect.

Another item to be considered, according to the report, is the money received from the federal government under Public Law 874.

This act provides that when a school system is deprived of taxable land or otherwise burdened by the presence of federal activities, a partial reimbursement is extended by the federal government.

The law specifies that 3 1/2 percent of the pupil population must come from homes of these government personnel.

In a merged district, Jefferson County would have 3 percent cost not be maintained. Last year, the county received $276,000 from this source.

THE NATIONAL ANTHEM, AS SUNG BY THE FIRST BAPTIST CHOIR

POST OFFICE DEDICATED

Be it rain, sleet or snow, the mails must go

Despite a snowfall of over four inches, interested persons braved the elements to see Gov. Edward T. Breathitt help dedicate and officially open the new Jeffersontown Post Office Saturday. The new facility is in the same building as the new Liberty National Bank and Trust Company at 10417 Waterson Trail, the bank holding its open house this week.

The new Colonial style building is said to be the inspiration to new construction on Waterson Trail for the coming year. Its construction value is over $300,000 decorated with lanterns, greenery, steeple and antique-styled trim throughout. It is the second building to open in January of the same styling, the Snyder Professional Office Building being the first with a new City Hall building to follow later this year.

The governor said "the dedication of this new bank, the dedication of a new Post Office, the completion of a modern, four-lane highway from here to the Waterson—all this means that Jeffersontown is on the move. I believe in a community that is moving, growing, doing, dreaming, building—and you have such a community."

Wilbur Fisher, president of Liberty National, Merle Robertson, chairman of the board; County Attorney R. P. Sawyer; Director of Postal Services R. H. Glassmeyer and Mayor Frank Chambers also took part in the ceremonies. Glassmeyer called the city's symbol of progress to come.

The building's costs are normally higher than other banks or Post Offices pay for their facilities. The Post Office has leased about two-thirds of the building from the bank at $8,500 annually for the first 10 years.

The dedication committee planned for a crowd of over 500 persons if the weather was clear and mild, the Jeffersontown Woman's Club had made approximately 1,200 cookies and beverages to go with them. The Fort Knox Army Bank did not appear because of snow conditions.

The Henry Waterson Garden Club presented both the bank and Post Office vases of artificial flowers and the Chamber of Commerce had made preparations to provide dinners for the Fort Knox Band.

Studying government in school, young Scott Cook wanted to meet the governor. His mother, Mrs. Kenneth Cook said, "he was so thrilled that he would see Mr. Breathitt." The Cook's reside at 2700 Tregaron; he is an employee of the bank.

Merger question off to definite defeat

A vote now to determine the public's reaction toward merging the Louisville and Jefferson County School systems will be a resounding defeat for merging. We believe it is a very untimely move on part of both school boards to call for a vote at this time.

The first indication that merger can not be approved now is the mixed opinions among the school board members over merging; they seem confused over the question and the public certainly is.

Though the vote, which ever way it goes, isn't binding on the boards, the majority of the voters will not vote for something which has as many unanswered questions as this riddle over school problems.

Merging may be the best ultimate solution or may permit a more efficient system in years ahead. But there is no indication that any one problem will be solved by merger now—and without very specific answers as to what merger will accomplish for the two school systems, the public will be reluctant to upset the present systems if for nothing more than fear that present problems will become compounded.

The big question still is: where and when will the schools get the money the boards say they need, both for construction and teacher salaries? Until this question is answered there is little need to talk about merging.

If a merger were to come, without the additional revenue, the result could only mean lowering county teacher salaries, either to the level of city teachers, or at least an equalization of the salaries with present revenue—and still no solution to overcrowded schools.

That the question of merging comes up at this time merely adds to the already confused school picture.

LOOKING THROUGH THE JEFFERSONIAN FILES

40 YEARS AGO

With an attendance of 200, the Jefferson County Farm Bureau held its annual meeting at the Louisville Hotel.

Fiscal Court last week approved zoning of the old Buechel farm, just west of Middletown on U.S. 60, for a residential subdivision with homes, apartments, a small commercial center, and acreage for churches and schools.

That is just one of many indications that the great growth of the Louisville area will take place here in the east end.

Though many people whose hearts primarily are with the farm, are saddened to see the vast areas of farm land being converted into subdivisions and commercial complexes, it is the inexorable course of the individual changing the world in which he lives. It can be attributed to the competitive enterprise system, where business must look for most profit for the least investment.

But the major factor is that we are experiencing a population explosion and people must have homes. The drive or initiative of man has moved him across imaginary boundaries for centuries, just as the white man moved from the eastern seaboard through the undeveloped west, even against savage attacks. Those were times when man either built crude shelter or died without. Or, he had plenty of room to move on if he felt it crowded.

But in today's complex and economic structure, where man's privacy may be only a thin wall, or a screen of shrubbery, we must rely on government and its auxiliary units such as Planning and Zoning Commissions to protect one another's rights and at the same time allow orderly growth through foresight, concerned with the health and happiness of all, both the living today and those to come. This is among the functions of government, which must be the mediator for the common good. That is why we have planning and zoning commissions, whose authority can be over ruled by the legislative branch, whose decisions still can be rejected by the courts.

Hardly anyone ever objects to residential development. The strongest and most objectional aspects of building complexes come as a result of proposed commercial developments, which get the strictest attention, and are made to conform to rigid specifications.

If growth is to be proper and orderly, however, we can not always decide against commercial enterprise simply because it is commercial or because it isn't needed. Generally, each case must be weighed on its own merits.

Though we may prefer being far removed from any commercial firms, whatever the category, to live in an area confined to residential use, we can and often do go to extremes in our demands for strictly residential zoning. Small business shops, stores, and professional offices can sometimes be an asset rather than a disgrace. This is one reason why small areas set aside for commercial centers, properly controlled, may be in the best interest of all.

Building developments such as the proposed Douglas Village, with 700-plus homes, and other related necessities, which have been properly authorized under strict regulations, can be an asset to the entire east end community. We hope the City-County Planning and Zoning Commission and Fiscal Court have acted in the best interest and with foresight.

Though residential subdivisions heretofore have been just that, without commercial plots or developments, Douglas Village is probably just the beginning of many rather developments which we can expect in this area in months ahead.

As this area still retains a vast amount of farm land which is attractive for homes, east end suburbia is still in its infancy, but growing fast.

Jefferson GOP legislators grid to try Democratic majorities

Jefferson County Republican legislators are grid, along with their brethren out in the state, to cut the normally heavy Democratic Legislature.

Though Republican spokesmen know that the 1965 Legislature will be heavily Democratic, the Republican leadership is hopeful of cutting into the Democratic margin.

And a great deal of the drive is coming from Jefferson County.

Scott Miller, Jr., who is up for re-election to his 36th Senate seat here in the East-end, is heading the state committee for re-election of senators.

Heading the drive for House members is James Caldwell, also up for re-election from the 4th District (old 34th), and Don Ballington of the 34th House seat, is heading a watchdog committee to monitor the Governor's Fiscal affairs program.

Also helping Ballington, whose district is in the Highlands, is Bruce Blythe of the 32nd Representative District, Gene Starnes, representing the 48th, also in the East-end, is taking a big hand in organization work.

The Democratic Republicans not only are expecting to hold on to their seats, but are expecting to gain a senator in the state almost since the newly organized 36th Senatorial District which was formed partly from Miller's District. The district roughly is between Taylorsville Road and Preston Street. The party has several "good candidates" unannounced for the seat, according to Miller, who added that there may be a primary race develop for that seat.

In most all other races here in Jefferson County, the incumbents are expected to have no strong opposition if any in the primary.

The big drive, however, is going on out in the state for additional legislators. The Republicans are holding meetings in various sections, trying to get candidates for seats which have heretofore been without.

They are eyeing the Owensboro area, where they hope to get candidates to run. Miller noted that during the election two years ago, the Republicans stood a good chance of winning elections, had they had candidates in the races.

Republican strength was surprisingly stronger than first expected.

On the basis of the 1963 election, Republicans are going all out to at least have candidates for each congressional seat.

Not to be overlooked in the Republican drive is the Cruse, who is a field worker for the Republican State Central Committee, and has been out in the state almost since the polls closed last November 3 primarily getting Republicanism organizations functioning.

As Miller sees the senatorial races, he believes the Republicans will gain from three to five. He says two new areas are seats are sure-one in Jefferson County (the new 34th) and one in Fayette County, both organized as result of reapportionment two years ago.

Republicans are also hopeful of a Senate seat in north-eastern Kentucky, which include Lewis, Carter and Gramp County, and a Senate seat in Harlan County.

As to the Governor's announced legislative program, Blythe got caught secretary for the State GOP House caucus, this week said some of the Governor's proposals "will receive adequate Republican support."

He noted that Republican legislators probably will introduce their own bills to cut income taxes in proportion to the federal income tax cut of 1964.

Other bills include: 1) Make seats belts mandatory in all cars; 2) Allocate funds equipping all State Police cars with radar; 3) Eliminate "unfair" trust taxes.

4) Encourage private enterprise and discourage "State and federal interference and bureaucracy."

Among the Administration proposed measures which Blythe sees getting Republican support are bills to equalize city-by-city rates in all counties and to tighten steam and air-pollution statutes.

FARM BUREAU

in Action

Terrell Bennett
Kentucky Farm Bureau Fed.

What's ahead for farmers in 1965? This is a question many are asking as they enter the new year. The answer would be easier to find if it were not for the fact that farm costs in the months ahead, Farm costs in turn will be affected by what happens in wheat, soybean and cotton.

Robert V. Rouse, under secretary for monetary affairs, who is in charge of a recent press conference sounded a warning on mounting inflationary pressures that could arise from wage and price movements in the auto and steel industries.

Most of the steel companies recently boosted their prices 36 per cent on galvanized sheet steel. The steel workers' no doubt will cite these increases as they open negotiations on new contracts.

But, what is the fact that wages in the steel industry have risen more rapidly than prices.

Rise in steel prices mean higher prices for farm tractors and other machinery. Most of the price increases are in the price of tractors will rise faster than the price of milk.

The Johnson Administration has been so concerned with possible deflation that inflation for obvious political reasons.

These price increases are in a vulnerable position trying to be tough on organized labor as he owes them the price of higher prices.

Charles P. Dawson, local roarian of national renown, will speak on "New Roses and Sprays for 1965" at the monthly meeting of the Louisville Rose Society. The meeting will be at 8 p.m. Friday, January 22, at the First Christian Church, Fourth and Breckinridge Streets. Visitors are invited.

While the chief executive presages fragility, his Administration is not without plans to press forward with increases in payroll taxes for medicare and other purposes.

Increases in minimum wage standards and elimination of present exemptions.

All these things point to higher costs for consumers and farmers. Higher wage costs will be passed on in the form of higher prices.

There are some favorable factors in the outlook. Hog and cattle prices have risen in a relatively favorable position. Land values are continuing to rise. Some farmers with needed indebtedness might even look with favor on a little bit of inflation.

The future of farm income should be affected by legislative action in the form of programs that expire in 1965-cotton, wheat and feed grains. These price and price related to improve the average farmer's economic status.

There is every indication, however, that farmers will be successful in terminating these programs and moving toward a market economy.

At Fern Creek High School, a year ago, there were two distinct patterns. One is the conventional manner, having its beginning with the close of the Christmas holidays. The other is begun in September with the return of students and shoppers to the tune of chalk across a blackboard.

Now with January much upon us, Fern Creekers have reached the mid-term milestone, the first semester end, the second begins and our school is half completed.

There is no longer a feeling of unacquaintance with this year's students.

Instead, the glossiness of a new term is worn away and a lethargic season invades the minds of both pupil and instructor and obliges them to wonder if they can endure these final four months.

The freshman, new to the ways and means of high school life, are now in the endearing moments of "Shangra-La" waiting for him beside the pool.

The sophomore, beginning to feel the signs of his long-awaited maturity, fancies the fun of wheeling a recently car with that hard-won driver's license burning the wheels.

The junior's thoughts are turned to his already-ordered and long-awaited vacation and just what he WILL be next September.

For the senior his only concern is the resumé for getting out: on to college, to the Armed Forces, or to work. High school days, for those of us fortunate to attend, seem but a brief portion of our lives. Time flies, as Orville and Wilbur would agree and a "long" four years vanish without a second thought.

To seniors like myself the prime philosophy is to shed a sentimental tear and go "on to better things."

4 girls get eerie trip en route to stage show

Tuesday evening, January 12, several members of Mrs. Judith McClure's speech and dramatics class presented a program at Casey Hall, Central State Hospital.

Upon arriving at the hospital, Misses Linda Whitenack, Susan Hughes, Janis Finelstein and Betty Edgar were greeted by a rather shabbily dressed man who announced that he was a "patient" and would lead the students to Casey Hall.

Supposedly taking a short cut, the party of frightened girls with their guide wandered through long dark corridors and ambled up and down creaky staircases. After encountering several patients who gazed abstractedly at the intruders, the terrified girls with their seemingly calm companion reached their destination, Casey Hall.

With the four girls having arrived at Casey Hall, all the students who were to perform were ready for the curtains up signal.

As the house lights dimmed the mistress of ceremonies, Janis Finelstein, introduced the program and Miss Betty Edgar, who extended a greeting called "Friendship." A lively pantomime and dance was done by Suzanne McKay to the tune "Old Fashioned Girl."

Next on the program was Mary Nell Holton who recited "Nancy Hanks." Miss Holton illustrated the class's work in oral interpretation. A humorous monologue, "The 25th Wedding Anniversary," was presented by Miss Pam Hart. The monologue concerned with a woman who was celebrating her silver wedding anniversary was laughingly received by the audience. The woman celebrating the event had been married 17 years to a man. He died, and she remarried. After being hitched for another eight years, she was ready to celebrate her silver wedding anniversary. Why should she be cheated out of the honor, since she had been happily married for 25 years?

A modern jazz dance was given by Lauren Buster to "Blues for Drums." Lauren had arranged her own routine on her jazz dance.

Several students presented the "Trusting Play" by Booth Tarkington. Among the members of the cast were Linda Whitenack, Kenny Cook, Winston Kreschbaum, Jeanie Haverstick, Eric McClain, Joe Cluve and Beverly Waldmann. Miss Judy Bilyeu was the student director.

The host, Central State Hospital, thought that the evening was so enjoyable, that the speech and dramatics class was asked to present a variety show later in the year.

The following day Mrs. McClure informed the four girls who had been escorted by the "mental patient" to Casey Hall that this particular "patient" was her husband, the Rev. Chester McClure. She also stated that he had a great time frightening the students.

accessories to the home, always ask yourself this question about each plant: "Will it add to landscape effect or will it make clutter?" Plants which are useful in producing an uncluttered, mature landscape should be considered. Two plants can grow large enough to produce the proper effect at maturity. So it is foolish to use four plants to gain a quick effect, and maintenance costs are often higher later.

Also think about color. Will the color of the plant's flowers, fruits, leaves, or stems clash with the color of the house or other plants? Will it harmonize? Will it be seen or will it be "lost" because it is the same color? Is the plant to be used in front or in back of the house? In back more color clashing is tolerated because the backyard is "yours."

Will the mature plants be in scale with your house and lot? Do you want a quick but short lasting effect which will cost more to remove than to plant? Some low priced, quick growing shrubs soon grow over windows and hide the house. Some large trees are so short lived that you are soon faced with the expense of removing them. Small short lived trees are not so great a problem because they are not so expensive to remove and replace.

Are the trees a brittle type which can fall on your house? Do they harbor undesirable "bugs"? What about the expense of spraying 50- to 100-foot trees which have "bug" troubles? Are evergreens which have bagworms? What about elms and Dutch elm disease?

Are the fruits nuisances or useful? Do they require regular, timely spraying to be worm-free? Do they provide bird food? Many nut and fruit trees are nuisances in the front yard but may be desirable in the backyard if homeowners will care for them. Locally adapted northern varieties of pecans can make useful back ground trees.

Is there a continual dropping of twigs, leaves, bark, etc.? Will the flower petals be a mess on the front lawn or will they soon disappear? Does a shrub look nice most of the season or only while it is in flower? Does it grow "leggy" or close to the ground? Does it spread all over by suckers or can it be kept confined? Does it fit the effect you want to make?

Have we asked enough questions? These aren't all, but if you answer them you've gone a long way toward making a good selection for your landscape.

"Farm-City Week"

Gov. Edward T. Breathitt has declared the week of January 25-30 as "Farm Bureau Week" in Kentucky. The Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation will officially launch its 1965 membership campaign during this week. In his proclamation, Governor Breathitt pointed out that agriculture is the number one industry in Kentucky producing more total income and employing more people than any other.

He also referred to Farm Bureau as an organization with more than 75,000 rural and farm families in Kentucky voluntarily joined together for the purpose of speaking and acting for themselves through organized effort.

The proclamation refers to Farm Bureau as an organization that has gained wide public acceptance and reputation as the "Voice of Agriculture" in Kentucky.

Jack Welch, president, Owensboro, says that the individual farmer can no longer stand alone. "We must face our problems together, as a united organization of farmers. There is little hope that we can solve our problems individually," he says.

Last year, Farm Bureau ended its membership campaign with 75,345 family members, an increase of 1,322 over 1963. This is the third year in succession that the increase has exceeded 1,000.

Stanford Memorial Scholarships set up

The Kentucky Farm Bureau Mutual Insurance Company will again this year offer two $1,000 college scholarships to outstanding young people from Kentucky Farm Bureau farm families. Last year was the first time the insurance company offered these two scholarships. The award will be known this year as the J. E. Stanford Memorial Scholarships.

In addition, Winn-Dixie Stores, Inc., and the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation will award two $1,000 scholarships to Farm Bureau young people. This program is in its 13th consecutive year.

The four winners—two Kentucky boys and two Kentucky girls—will each receive $250 a year for four years to be used toward expenses at the college of their choice.

Applications for each of the four scholarships must be made by June 30, 1965. An announcement of the winners will be made on or before August 1, 1965.

Each applicant must have completed high school work by July 1, 1965 and must have completed the work in the same year as the application is submitted. Applicants must be nominated by the county Farm Bureau, young people's committee or scholarship committee appointed by the Farm Bureau.

To qualify for the J. E. Stanford Memorial scholarships, applicants must be members of families having KFB insurance.

The judging of applicants in each scholarship award will include the following:

Scholarship committees, extracurricular activities, leadership qualities, letters of recommendation, 4-H FFA and FFA activities, essay on "Why I Want to Go To College," neatness, good citizenship, and other supplementary evidence. Judging in the KFB insurance scholarship will emphasize need.

Recipients must enter college as a beginning freshman not later than the fall semester 1965 unless serious illness or injury prevents their doing so. In such cases, the award must enter college by the spring semester of 1966, or the award will go to the first alternate.

After the recipient accepts the award and enters college, dropping out of school, except for serious illness or injury, will cause the recipient to lose the award. In this case, the remaining part of the award will go to the first alternate.

Last year's scholarship program (for $1,000 scholarships) drew applications from 108 young people. Under the program, 25 scholarships have been awarded in the past 12 years.

Winners of the two Farm Bureau-Winn-Dixie scholarships last year were Miss Carolyn Jane Hepler, Stanley, and Michael Wayne Keesh, West Somerset.

The two insurance scholarship winners last year were Miss Linda Marie Bristers, Louisville, and William Warren Mallory, Cynthiana.

A contract between a bonding company and the church's board of trustees was signed five days later. Architects have been employed to formulate the master plan and to design the first unit. Garland Hedgespeth is chairman of the church building committee.

In addition to the proposed building activities, the congregation has approved the following to serve on the church board for 1965: Ralph King, H. W. Dabney, Victor Maxey, Albert Mueller, John Newman, Russell Baldwin, B. W. Brumage, John Cunningham, Roger Harrington, Eugene McEwen, John McGee, and Rev. Richard O'Dell. Week January 17-23

A SALUTE TO YOUNG MEN

JEFFERSONTOWN COMMUNITY

Join The Jaycees,
Call 267-7564 or 267-6326 for information

Bob Pflager

Voted the Jaycee "Outstanding Young Man of the Jeffersontown Community," he has earned a proud spot with our communities' civic leaders. Bob is manager of Kroger's Gardiner Lane Store and is one of our fine City Councilmen. He lives at 2401 Ballad Blvd., with his wife JoAnn and four children. He has been active on the Mile of Dimes; is on the Board of Directors of the Kroger Mutual Employees Benefit Association; is chairman of the City's Residential Development and Annexation Committee. He is currently Chairman of the Proposed City Masterplan Committee. Bob is 33.

Bob Barstow

Residing at 9504 Sue Helen Drive, Bob and his wife Alice are no strangers to the community. Bob started working here over five years ago, and just recently purchased the J'town Texaco Station at Waterson Trail and Taylorsville Road. He has worked on the Mile of Dimes and Candy Sale Committee. He is also a member of the Moose Lodge. Bob's station specializes in undercoating, along with lubrications, tune-ups, and Firestone Tires. He gives Top Value Stamps on all purchases. Bob is 27 and has two daughters.

Bill Rogers

Being a Field Representative for the Creasey Company (Wholesale Grocers) might find Bill doing anything from bagging groceries to selling the latest food items to one of Creasey's retail outlets. Being a Jaycee also requires the "wearing of many hats." Bill and his wife Catherine live at 3513 Sue Helen Drive, and have one boy and girl. Bill, 27, has worked on many Jaycee committees, most recent being the Cake Sale and Mile of Dimes. The Creasey Company supplies Gateway, Key and Little Giant Food Stores. This week, over 5,500 Jaycees celebrate their birthdays!

Lou Snipp

Lou is General Manager of Harmony J'town Lane, located in the J'town Shopping Center. He is chairman of the Sports and Recreation Committee, married to Doris, with three children. He is also a member of the Jeffersontown Optimists Club and Chamber of Commerce. He resides at 2501 Spring Drive. Martin Miller of Louisville, has just recently joined Mr. Snipp as Assistant Manager. He is also a new member of the Jaycees. He is married to Jane, with two children. Although he has not "wotten his feet wet" in Jaycee activities, he hopes to be of help soon. He is 23. Martin's picture not available.

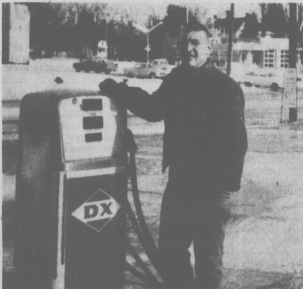

Nelson Joslin

After more than two years away from J'town, Nelson Joslin has returned to open and manage the Barber's Executive, at 2907 Taylorsville Rd., in the Snyder Professional Building. Nelson formerly owned a shop on Waterson Trail. He lives with his wife, Joan, and 3 daughters at 3509 Tucker Station Rd. He is outstanding Chairman of all Youth Activities and chairman of the Social Committee. One of his duties was the Children's Christmas Party, Remember Barber's Executive, "Created for the Man who Wants the Best."

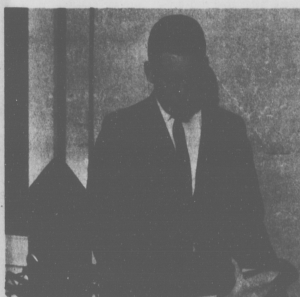

Jim Marchal

One of the community's busiest young men is the Jaycee's founder and charter President. Jim also is a representative to the State Board of Directors; publicity chairman for the past J'town Fair; Jaycee representative to the Community Center; and Chairman of the Center's By-Law Reorganization. He and his wife Joan have three children. Jim, 26, is a retail advertising representative for the Courier-Journal & Louisville Times. He has been the spearhead of the Jaycee's in their first year, leading them to be one of the top 5 clubs in the state. He resides at 9719 Galena.

Donnie Neal

A member of the Jaycees, the Optimists Club and the Chamber of Commerce is this 28 year old service station operator. Donnie lives at 2511 Harmony Road, with his wife Maxine and three children. He is a member of the "Outstanding Young Man" Committee and has participated on other projects. He is a partner, with Bill Dally, in the Jeffersontown D-X Service Station at 9514 Taylorsville Road, offering fine D-X products, automotive mechanical service, 24 hour road service and a wide range of auto parts. Another young leader of our community!

Paul Lichtefeld

Paul is the Jaycees newly elected External Vice President. At 23, he is past Director, chairman of the Little League Umpires Program of the Jaycees and chairman of the Christmas Awards Committee. With his wife, Jane, and one boy, they reside at 9721 Sue Helen Drive. Paul is in the family's construction business, (Fred Lichtefeld & Sons Construction Co.), specializing in remodeling, additions, steel buildings and trusses. Herb Puckett

Like Herb, most Jaycees are married, responsible young men of their community. A resident of 9612 Camille Road, he and his wife Helen have one girl. He is a member of the Volunteer Fire Department and works with his father, Clarence at Puckett's Easo Service Station opposite the J'town Center. They specialize in tune-ups, brake work and tire sales. "We give KIng Korn Stamps." The National Jaycee movement started in 1920, when Henry Glassmeyer saw a need for a young men's civic group and organized the first chapter. Since then, the Jaycee world has grown to all "free" countries.

Bill Skidmore

This 25 year old Jaycee is one of the more active members of his club. Bill, with his wife Grace, have three children and reside in Louisville. He is manager of the Big O Tire Store in Jeffersontown, a leading new and recap tire dealer. Also, Big O can service your cars, balancing, tuning and stipe needs, and on budget terms. Bill is Chairman of the Jaycee's Visitation Committee and worked on several other projects. He is also a member of the local Order of the Moose. One more reason why the Jaycee's have been a successful organization.

Wendell Holmes

Outstanding young men are easy to find in the Jaycees, as examples like Wendell. He is Drafting Instructor at the Area Vocational Technical School, a resident of the community, a graduate of Greenville, Ky., High School and attended Miami University. At 28, he is chairman of the Education and Program Committees, and was assistant chairman of the Children's Christmas Party. Wendell is one of many members earning his "SPOKE" Award, overall recognition of committee work, attendance and participation.

"Steve" Stevens

The responsibility for the club's internal workings lies on this man's shoulders. Steve, 28, is the Internal Vice-President and former Director, is chairman of the Membership and Cake Sale Committees. Married, Steve and his wife, Lorine, live with their four children at 9410 Galena Drive. He is a Prudential Insurance agent, Graduate Life Underwriter. He is just one of the many young men of action of the community; serving the insurance needs of his customers and serving the civic needs of his community.

David Schansberg

Civic work is just one part of this man's daily work, working as General Manager of the Jeffersonian and its publishing company. Dave, 25, has served J'town for six years, is Vice President and Secretary of the Senior Chamber of Commerce and a member of the Jaycees. Through his newspaper duties, he has been active in promoting Jaycee events and activities since the club was organized. With his wife, "Gandy," Dave is a resident of 3608 Lisa Lane. The Jeffersonian publishes, each week, the current news and features of interest to Jeffersonian area readers.

Postmaster John Humphrey urges co-operation of rural route patrons

Postmaster John S. Humphrey, Jr., this week appealed to postal customers on rural routes to help their rural carriers make mail deliveries during bad winter weather. The Jefferson post office has three rural routes, covering the east and southeast areas.

Humphrey said that at the same time he hopes all authorities concerned with rural routes where snow and other bad weather hampers the carriers will continue to cooperate to help the mailmen get through.

The postmaster listed these points of particular concern:

1. Approaches to rural mail boxes must be kept open by customers.
2. Obstructions to delivery of mail on rural routes should be removed or minimized to the fullest extent possible.

Where rural boxes pose a problem, the carrier may leave form 4056, "Your Mailbox Needs Attention," a notice to keep box approaches clear by promptly removing all obstructions, including snow, which may make mail delivery difficult or impossible.

Unless approaches are cleared, it may be necessary to temporarily withhold delivery of mail, the postmaster pointed out.

Rural carriers are not required to perform service on foot when roads cannot be traveled with the vehicles normally used, but they are expected to make every reasonable effort to serve as many of their patrons as possible without physical exertion or added financial cost, he explained.

If excessive detours are necessary to effect delivery of mail, customers should temporarily relocate their boxes on the new line of travel, arrange to receive their mail through other patrons' boxes, or make other arrangements for their mail until travel on the roads affected can be resumed, Humphrey concluded.

PTA approves plans for casual dance

By Betty Sparks L. the Rev. Marvin Rolles

Exams are over and parents and teachers lived through the ordeal. Now the grade cards are out, time to see what has been done. Some of us might be standing up to eat for a while—most of us some of the C's say so.

The PTA met Wednesday night, January 13, and announced there is to be a casual dance February 27 at St. Edward. Work up a crowd and have a gay time.

Speaker for the meeting was Dr. E. Schenbachler who talked on "When Did I Call Your Doctor?" It was very informative in every way.

St. Edward School is giving two awards in the form of trophies for the "most improved" girl and boy at the end of the year. We should remind the children of this honor from time to time.

Cub Scouts, don't forget the pack meeting at 7:30 p.m., January 26. We also want to note that "Cub Scout Communion Sunday" is the first Sunday of each month at the 9 a.m. mass. Please attend and sit in a group in the front pews.

The St. Edward Men's Club will meet at 8 p.m. the first Monday of February. The club would like to invite the men of the parish to join.

The Men's Club of St. Edward elected officers for the coming year as follows: Tom Schmuckli, president; William H. Sparks, vice president, and Joseph Eckert, secretary-treasurer.

Thursday night is the time for the Christian Mothers Altar Society meeting. New members are cordially invited. Come to the session and join. Sunday at the 7:30 mass will be communion day for the society.

At 7:30 p.m. the St. Vincent dePaul Society will meet in the rectory. Make plans to attend.

The session also elected Elder Quick to represent the congregation with the pastor at the winter meeting of the Louisville Presbytery at 10 a.m. Saturday, January 23, at the Bardstown Road Presbyterian Church. Ruling Elder R. H. Gates will act as alternate.

"What Did Jesus Preach?" is the subject of the Rev. M. R. Costanzo, pastor, for the 11 a.m. service Sunday, January 24.

Norwood Homemakers

By Mrs. Arnold Rogers

The Norwood Homemakers met Tuesday, January 12, at the home of Mrs. Arnold Rogers. Fourteen members were present plus two prospective members, Mrs. August Bookman and Mrs. John Mosder.

The clubs main activities for the day were consumer information and music. Our consumer information chairman Mrs. Emily O'Brien asked each member to bring a new item from the grocery shelf. She also brought a large basket from the Gateway Grocery filled with items consisting of everything from melted chocolate to decorated paper towels.

After a delightful luncheon was served by our hostess and co-hostess, Mrs. Henry Lynch, in the absence of our music chairman, Mrs. Gilbert Ruf, entertained with different types of song forms, hymns, choruses, rounds, spirituals, etc. She also played Folk singing records with the entire club joining in.

Our next club meeting will be held February 9 at the home of Mrs. Bernard Alvey, 223 Alcott Rd.

Eastern PTA

The next meeting of the Eastern PTA will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, January 28, in the school auditorium. The program will be on "Parents are People, Too."
